Allure of the figure

Peruvian-born actress and widow of the legendary John Wayne, Pilar Wayne is world renowned for her talent as a painter and artist. Wayne's highly sought after works of art include a collection of still life and figurative paintings with subjects ranging from exotic belly dancers and "Glamour Girls" to celebrity portraits and Hollywood vignettes.

"Art is my passion. I have been blessed with it. It's being alive. It's being at peace. It's being in love," says Wayne. "To be given the ability to paint is one of my greatest pleasures for which I am forever grateful."

Collectors of Wayne's art range from major corporations to Hollywood notables such as Clint Eastwood, Ben Johnson, Rock Hudson, John Travolta, Loretta Lynn, Donald Trump, Marla Maples and Claire Trevor, as well as the Duke's ardent fans. Wayne exhibits her artwork across the United States, throughout South America and in parts of Europe.

Highly spiritual, Wayne holds steadfast to her convictions in her approach to life and enjoys touring lecture halls giving engaging talks on the world of art and its benefits for the soul. In addition to her love of art and music,

Wayne is a notable author who published several books including her autobiography, John Wayne - My Life with The Duke, and two well-received cookbooks. She is also a skilled interior designer and an accomplished restaurateur. ●
